

ANTWERP INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

Antwerp, diamond capital of the world has successfully positioned itself as a business centre. The growth of its economy is boosted by its port, one of the most important in Europe, and by fashion and petrochemical industries, making Antwerp Belgium's second largest city.

Antwerp International Airport is located at Flanders economic heart, about 4 km from Antwerp City Center. It is the perfect operating base for the numerous multinationals situated in the surrounding area. This proximity makes the airport a convenient choice for business travellers, offering them quick and easy boarding and disembarkation. From Antwerp, the airport connects major European cities. Apart from business traffic, Antwerp International Airport focusses on high-end leisure passengers, allowing the development of holiday flights.

Antwerp International Airport has a catchment area of 1.5 million people within 30 minutes' drive and 3 million people within one hour's driving distance. It is accessible by road, train and bus services.

The passenger terminal has modern facilities and meets passenger and airline expectations in terms of services and international standards.
